First DOH Recovery and Reinvestment Contracts Awarded

CHARLESTON—West Virginia Governor Joe Manchin and Secretary of Transportation Paul Mattox are pleased to announce the awarding of $7,171,062.95 in Highways contracts as part of the first round of the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act.

“As I have said all along, we have three main priorities when it comes to the Recovery Act, which include being responsible with the taxpayers' money, meeting the requirements of the legislation and creating jobs,” Gov. Joe Manchin said. “This is the Department of Transportation's first major step in producing real, tangible results from the recovery funds, and we will continue to put our stimulus dollars to work as quickly as possible.”

“This first round of awards includes a slide repair, two bridge overlays and nearly 11 miles of resurfacing projects,” explained Secretary Mattox. “We believe the traveling public will begin to see the real benefits of this plan in creating and retaining jobs throughout West Virginia. It also marks the beginning of some very worthy projects.”

There were two Latex Modified Concrete Bridge Overlay contracts awarded. Ahern & Associates, Inc. of South Charleston received a $773,800.00 contract that includes the eastbound and westbound sides of the Oakvale Bridge, along US 460 in Mercer County and a $481,187.00 contract was awarded to Orders Construction
